

Writing Beamer presentations in org-mode

Eric S Fraga

2010-03-30 Tue

Introduction

A simple slide

A more complex slide

Org mode increases productivity

B_theorem

This slide consists of some text with a number of bullet points:

- ▶ the first, very @important@, point!
- ▶ the previous point shows the use of the special markup which translates to the Beamer specific alert command for highlighting text.

The above list could be numbered or any other type of list and may include sub-lists.

This slide illustrates the use of Beamer blocks. The following text, with its own headline, is displayed in a block:

- ▶ org mode means not having to remember  $\text{\LaTeX}$  commands.
- ▶ it is based on ascii text which is inherently portable.
- ▶ Emacs!